OUR BELOVED PROPHET IN THE NEWS THIS WEEK....

In Japan

In a highly rated magazine...
This picture was taken after a 3hrs book signature session on the last day of the seminar in Japan...

In Playboy, on the celebrity page...

And in France, in many articles related to the latest book of Michel Houellebecq, "La possibilite d'une Ile" that is refering to cloning and to a religious minority that has some common ground with the Raelian MovementJ ... In his interviews, Michel didn't hide the fact that he likes spending time with us, as he did on the last day of the European seminar last month, where he had dinner with the Prophet Rael and a few of his guests, laughing together about the anticipated agitation around his book...

Michel Houellebecq said that the Raelian philosophy is " adapted to modern times, to the leisure society, it has no moral constraints and on top of that, it promises immortality"

He also said that "Rael is quite sympathetic" and " his ideas are interesting"

Elohim song in Hebrew!!

An Israeli Raelian artist, Leor Gal, recorded the song Elohim in Hebrew.... You can download it on rael.org now... EnjoyJ

LOTS OF ACTIONS IN AFRICA

On the scientific side in Ivory Coast

By Yves Boni

It is my pleasure to share the beautiful campaign for the development of Biotechnology and GMO organized with the guide Hortense Dodo in Ivory Coast.

During their vacations in Ivory Coast, their country of origin, the beautiful and gracious Professor Hortense Dodo, raelian bishop, Ph.D. in Molecular Biology, teacher and researcher at the University of Alabama, and the charming Dr. Konnan Koffi, also raelian, Ph.D. in genetic engineering, teacher and researcher at the university of Alabama as well, participated in many activities for the promotion of science, GMO, but also sexuality, feminine leadership and femininity.

Here are the remarkable results :

- 2 conferences at the national University of Abidjan with the presence of the President of the University, the director of the Bioscience department, the national press. 150 computers were donated to the University by the US Black diaspora lead by Hortense.
- 1 scientific conference at the National Center for Agronomic research
- 5000 pamphlets and posters distributed on the campus by the young raelian team.
- 5 radio shows (more than 10 million people listening)
- 5 articles published in the most important press media of the country.

A TV show should be aired this Friday, the 26th, as the final of this wonderful tour of Hortense and Koffi in Africa.

Several private meetings took place as well at the highest level of the political organization here, at the Presidency, the Congress, a few ministers, but also with an association of women farmers who came from far to meet with Hortense. All these people are now more knowledgeable and opened to GMO.

Following this campaign, several projects are being initiated in Ivory Coast : the building of a laboratory on biotechnology at the University of Abidjan, and a promotion campaign of biotechnologies as a government project !
Congratulations Hortense, Koffi and the whole organization team, Raelito, Loba, Adadjo, Epokou, Niahi, Gbi,)

Here are some excerpts of the articles published in the national press :

“GMO cannot be avoided in the agriculture of the 21st century ”

IN GABON.... on the ARTISTS' side J

Thomas Kaenzig who is in Libreville, Gabon for a short stay tells us:

I am just coming back from my 2nd night at the " Music Night" event. Everything started at the airport where I met the manager of Lobo, a South-African singer, see <http://www.jakeproductions.com/Artist%20Management.htm>). I went out with the whole South-African group on the following day and they invited me to the Saturday evening concert.

On Saturday, arriving at the Stadium with 50000 people in there, we presented ourselves to a gate that was blocked by Republican Guard. I thought it was the main entrance and we couldn't get in because the stadium was already too full. I realized later that it was the VIP entrance and the access to backstage as well. After 10 minutes discussion, finally someone let us in and we found ourselves surrounded by the artists and the guests of the night.

We attended the whole concert .. as the girls were talking only English in a French environment, I became their handyman so to speak, showing them the toilets, helping with their clothes, that was funny.... while they were going of stage after their performance, the famous US artist Shaggy (<http://www.shaggyonline.com/default.asp>) showed up... I was there surrounded by all the VIPs, Shaggy, Lebo, all kinds of people coming to shake hands with meJ

We finished the evening in a bar all together, Lebo and her group doing impro with Shaggy... that was cool!

I sent the messages as an ebook to the manager of Lebo as I promised her, and I am about to do the same for Lebo with whom I had good relation.

Tonight, I also went to their "thanks party" as all artists were invited the the "Casting" nightclub. It was this time, the singer Arnold Djoud who invited me.

(<http://www.gevaz.com/index/modules.php?op=modload&name=zMP3ree&file=detail&cat=21&de=3>). During the whole evening we talked about the Movement and I gave him a pamphlet. (We met a few days later and spoke for 5 hours about our philosophy). He is especially touched by the part that says that “Femininity will bring Peace”.

The raelians of Libreville met on a beach last Sunday around their new national guide.... Good for Thomas who could rest after his busy nights;-)

On the UFO side, on the Reunion Island.

By Désiré, assistant-guide in charge of the island.

On this Saturday morning, we received lots of phone calls from friends, acquaintances but also from the press... Thanks to the latest posters we placed in the streets about the free ebooks to download, they could all find our phone number.... and this time, the press wanted to reach us as they needed experts : the raelians!

But it wasn't for the posters that they needed us, it was all about a UFO picture that had been taken on the island and that was on the front page of the main newspapers here. Actually 4 UFOs were on the picture, hanging above the island. So they needed experts and they wanted our opinion....

But we are living almost two hours South of the TV studio... it doesn't matter they said, they wanted our opinion and decided to come and interview us. The testimonies of "knowledgeable critics" were capital for them J

Gislin who became raelian last April quickly cancelled his plans and joined us....

The piece was aired the same night as their main first subject! It was only 3 minutes but a very respectful document and they chose to air very persuasive parts of our arguments.

What a rich moment we lived together on that day!

The day after, local radios also talked about the event and naturally talked about the Raelian Movement as they saw us on television the day before. They even initiated a debate about our philosophy and some of us were able to give our perspective.

IN EUROPE....

Good start for year 60 in the East of France.

The whole team was in the streets of Metz and Starsbourg last Saturday. People were obviously very attracted to us following all the media coverage of the launch of Michel Houellebecq's book.... 'who are these raelians who inspired the last book of this famous writer ?'

In Leuven, Belgium...

By Cath

This message to share with you the pleasure we had to deliver our books to Professor Kevin Warwick, famous English Cybernetician from Reading University near London.

(notes from redaction: Kevin Warwick is the scientist who implanted a chip in his arm... first human cyborg;-0)

We were 4, Nathalie, Régnier, Emael and myself, at the "The Nano-bio-cogno-convergence" symposium organized in Leuven for doctors, industrial, scientists and students, all specialized in nano- and bio-technologies.

We arrived during the break there, not knowing who to talk to. We found a secretary who told us we should have taken an appointment but went to find out if we could meet him. So we sat in the entrance waiting for a possible authorization to meet the Professor. While we were seated there, a man arrived and sat next to us, an orange in his mouth.

Nathalie who was carrying the books, was also well organized and had a picture of Kevin Warwick. She identified our neighbor as the Professor and told us. We started to stare at him then, trying to make sure and of course he was quite intrigued to see us staring. This is when the secretary arrived running and told him we wanted to talk to him. Still with his orange in the mouth he looked at us and said "This strange people?" with a mischievous smile. He stood up and shook our hands asking who we are. Nathalie then explained that we are Raelians who wanted to congratulate him for the work he does for Humanity and that we would love to give him two books. He was very touched and intrigued by the books. When he saw the title "Yes to Human Cloning " he expressed a hmmm of interest and gave us a large smile. He then offered to let us come in the auditorium for his conference. He said " I will tell them you are friends"... A few seconds later he came back with the secretary and told us we could come in.

We are then given a pass to attend and a seat just when the conference is about to start. His intro was about cybernetics and what it will give to the future, saying that this is not science fiction and that... media are distorting what he says (eh eh). He talked about his research with lightness and humour. For him, the man of tomorrow will be a cyborg. He talked a little bit about the transfert of information from computers to brains, communication through internet. Some of his speech made us think of the teachings of our Beloved Prophet, what he wrote in "Yes to Human Cloning" as well and what is in the Messages. We could feel we gave the books to the right person.

At the end of his talk, people asked questions, not very bright ones. Mainly, he said that his goal is to work for science and better human beings.

To one of the questions, he answered that we will have the choice to become cyborg or stay imperfect human beings, but his choice is clear and he finished with the Terminator's line "I'll be back" :-))))

At the end of the conference while we were leaving, Emael waved to him and he answered back with the same mischievous smile. The other participants were wondering who could be these persons who were obviously friends with a famous University professor.

Well, we had the pleasure to meet with an extravagant man, full of humour and sensitivity for whom research is a game.

Does that remind you of some other people?

Here is the summary of his talk :

GOOD NEWS FROM ARAMIS

by Pierre-Paul Bourque

According to the international Federation of the Iranian refugees, the court of Iran would have suspended the execution of two homosexuals that was supposed to take place last weekend. The Federation news is based on an official statement of the news Service of the Islamic Republic. It is likely that this execution being postponed is the result of the international mobilization.

We certainly have something to do with it !!!! Demonstration, petitions, letters,etc.... Thank you all for your help!
