Have you heard the news?

Scientists in Minnesota recently built a “cell” from scratch – a few hundred ingredients wrapped in a little fat membrane – and the thing actually ate and divided. Just like that. Life, assembled by human hands in a laboratory.

This isn't a cell grown from another cell. This is precisely what Rael described as the origin of creation: taking matter, combining ingredients with intention, and watching something autonomous emerge. The Elohim did it first. Now we are doing it too. We are, quite literally, becoming our parents.

Of course, our evolutionist friends will feel wonderfully vindicated; and we warmly smile at that. But here is the delicious detail they might want to sit with: a human hand put those ingredients together. Human intent directed the experiment. The cell did not assemble itself out of a happy accident. It was designed, built, and lovingly observed by intelligent minds. Sounds familiar?

And speaking of those intelligent minds, have you ever wondered how many Elohim were working in those original Earth laboratories? How many generations passed through the centuries and millennia of creation, each one picking up where the last left off?

Mythology gives us the most wonderful hints. In China, Pangu was the great terraformer; separating sky from earth, shaping the land, preparing the stage. In Japan, Izanagi stirred the primordial ocean to bring the islands into being. First generation: the environmental engineers, the ones who prepared the lab.

Then came the next wave. Nüwa, in China, molded humans from clay and later repaired the sky itself to protect her creation; the ultimate devoted scientist. In Japan, Amaterasu oversaw the emergence of humanity and taught them the essential skills of civilization. Creators and educators breathing life into a brand-new world.

And then, because good managers always plan succession, Amaterasu sent her grandson Ninigi-no-Mikoto down to Earth to take over. A divine project manager installed to guide baby humanity through its next chapter. The beginning of a long, tender relationship of guidance, education, care and love.

Different cultures, different names, different stories, all pointing to the same extraordinary multigenerational project: humans creating humans. And now, in a laboratory in Minnesota, humans are beginning to do the same. Historical moments are unfolding around us every single day. Life created in laboratories. The skies growing more crowded with acknowledgment. The pieces of the plan clicking into place, one discovery at a time.

It is a genuinely wonderful time to be alive. Please take exquisite care of your happiness; we will want everyone present for what comes next.

Maitreya's Words

The simplest mission: smile and change the world

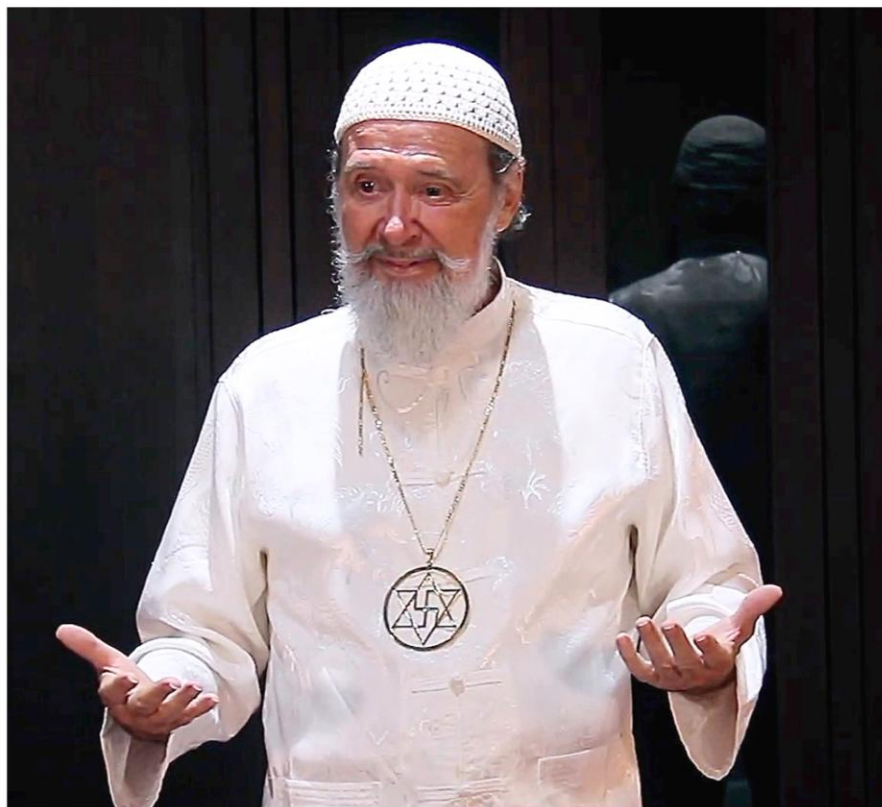

Maitreya Rael, Raelian Gathering, June 14, 80 aH (2026), Okinawa, Japan

Today, I have a little surprise for you. We found a video made by AI that is exactly what we are. What are we? Messengers of the Elohim, yes. But above all, we are creating a happy humanity. Our mission is to make all humanity peaceful, loving, and happy. And this little video, made by somebody who is not even Raelian, makes me so happy because it is who we are.

Human beings are so stupid. Everything is here. Happiness is here, inside you. But you have to see it to find it. And people run all over in a kind of rat race. "Where is happiness? Where is happiness?" Inside you. But they look outside and they search. All humanity, millions of people... It's right there, but they search outside. "What can make me happy? More money? More power? A new car? A new job? A new partner?"

Nothing.

Because happiness is not outside, as you know. You look outside everywhere. Look inside. It's so, so simple. And the best way to express your happiness is to smile. Very, very difficult, right? No need to go to the best universities, just smile. Be so happy that your happiness becomes contagious. The happier you are, the more you make the people around you happy. Very difficult. Just a smile.

Very difficult. Just a face like that.

People are walking in the street, depressed, "Where is happiness? Where is happiness?" Thousands of suicides every day. Why? Because they are not happy. Oh, they have cars, apartments, boyfriends, girlfriends. They have everything but they are not happy. And they walk in the street like zombies, like ghosts, like sleepwalkers. And suddenly they see you. They don't see you, they see your smile.

Eh? Eh? Eh? [in a Japanese way to say it]

You are here to create this [the laughter], Eh? just with a smile.

You walk in the street. How many people will have the smile of Haachan? You can count, right? Nobody. They walk like robots. They have faces that are almost dead. And suddenly they see Haachan, smiling for no reason. But it changes people’s lives. And that’s our mission. Changing this planet is so easy.

And it’s very, very powerful. So, before we watch this video, just a little piece of information I discovered this morning. Top researchers in quantum science have discovered – well, they think they discovered it, because what they found is so incredible.

One quantum physicist said, “It’s so strange. The more we look into the infinitely small world of quantum physics, the more it seems that the particles, the infinitely small particles, behave as if somebody is watching.” Not us. They say “something”. They don’t say “somebody” because they don’t want to promote the idea of God.

All the particles move in a way that looks like something is watching us. You can connect that with my speech from last week. The photons behave differently when somebody is watching than when nobody is watching. No science can explain that. And this scientist applied this discovery to all the particles and atoms of the universe and said, “The way it behaves, it’s as if something is watching.”

Dream about that.

And now, let’s see how you can change this planet.

Your cells are listening and smiling

Maitreya Rael, Raelian Gathering, June 21, 80 aH (2026), Okinawa, Japan

How to start the day? Always by smiling. Alone. Not smiling to other people, which is a kind of communication. In your bed or in your futon, when you wake up, before opening your eyes, smile.

Who are you smiling at? Nobody? Nobody?

To billions of cells. Your body. How many? Thirty-four billion or trillion, I don't remember, cells.

When you smile, they feel it. And when they smile, because they can smile too, you feel it. Sometimes, I'm sure you've all noticed it, "Ah, I feel good." Especially when you stretch or when you breathe deeply like that. You make these billions of cells smile. When you don't have enough oxygen to give them energy, naturally you have a deep sigh. What is that? Who are you talking to when you go, "Ahhh..."? To these cells.

When you have pain somewhere, when you hurt your knee or any other place, what do you do? "Oh, my stomach hurts... ah..." And then you touch the place. Why? You communicate with your cells, and you feel better. By just placing your hand there.

Who is touching whom? You are touching yourself. You are communicating with your cells.

"Hello! I am here! I love you! Stop being in pain!" You touch. It's amazing, right?

Sometimes we make fun of old people, or young people too, who talk to themselves, "Oh, I will cook something." My mother was like that, "Oh, maybe I need to put a little more salt." Alone in the kitchen. Everything she was doing, she was saying out loud. Nobody was listening. The cells did. Instinctively, you talk to yourself.

Who is talking to whom? To yourself. If you have pain in your stomach, talk to your stomach, "I feel you. I understand your suffering. You will feel better soon." The cells feel that.

I remember when I was, at times in my life, in the hospital because I was very sick. You can choose to suffer or to heal. You heal yourself from physical pain or mental suffering.

When you are sad, or depressed, or simply having a bad day, it happens to everybody, then the terrible devil word comes, “Why?” It is poison, pure poison, because you always give yourself an answer. It’s a terrible trap, like a mousetrap, “I am Raelian. I follow Maitreya’s Happiness Academy. Why do I feel sad today? Why?”

Ah! “It’s because...” Then you find a justification for your suffering. And it’s very interesting because you can become depressed by being depressed, “I am sad to be sad. Especially as a Raelian. How can I be sad? I know Maitreya. I know the Happiness Academy. How can I suffer?” And then you add another suffering, which is guilt, “How can I suffer? I am Raelian. I have received the light of the Elohim. Wow! I must be a very bad Raelian.” You know.

And in the same way that you can be sad to be sad, when you are sad, and then sad to be sad, you can become even more sad to be sad to be sad. It’s never-ending. Or, when you are in the hospital, “I have pain, but I am healing. I feel my body healing itself.” It’s not an illusion. Constantly, your body is healing itself.

Do you know that every day, everybody develops new cancers? Every minute, your body creates cancer cells. But the Elohim placed inside us a special police force – like when you go through a red light and the police stop you – we have, in our blood and throughout our body, this police force. And this police force, as soon as there is one cell that becomes abnormal, destroys it. Constantly.

Every minute, you have millions of cells, millions, that are destroyed by this police force. This police force is called the immune system.

When we were created, I am not talking about the first human beings in the laboratories of the Elohim. I am talking about when you were created in your mother’s womb. Sperm and ovum, pyoum! They meet inside. The sperm enters, then two cells appear, four, eight... And it becomes bigger. It looks like a little blackberry, or a black raspberry, if you like. That’s why they call this stage – when you look like a little berry – the morula. The medical name is morula. It means blackberry. And at this level, all cells are perfect.

Then, as development continues, some mistakes can happen. You know, with your computer, you do copy-paste every day. All our cells work like that. We can live 70, 80, 90 years. Not our cells. You can live 80 or 90 years, but your cells have a very short lifespan. For some of them, only a few hours. Then they die. But they are immediately replaced by a cell that is identical.

Copy-paste. All our life.

But sometimes, because we have billions of cells, like with your computer, there is a mistake. We say, “corrupt file”; corrupt meaning that something was modified and the copy is no longer the same. That’s the problem. That’s aging. Copy-paste with mistakes.

The immune system policeman then reacts! Every time the copy-paste is not exactly the same, it destroys the cell. But in your body, billions and billions, we can even say trillions, of cells are constantly copying and pasting themselves. And sometimes the police don’t see. And that’s aging.

You are full of hair, and suddenly, whoop! no more. Beautiful skin, and then wrinkles. That’s a copy-paste mistake. Everywhere. Beautiful breasts? Copy-paste mistake. Black hair? Oops! White hair. Copy-paste mistake. Black beard? White beard. All our body, constantly. A little bit is okay, but we live a long life.

Cells live, for some of them, only a few hours, a few days, or a few weeks. But we live 80, 90 years. So, there are more and more copy-paste mistakes. Suddenly, the majority is corrupt. And the police cannot fix it anymore.

They give up. We call it death. When there are too many mistakes, the system says, “End of program.” And we die. Everything alive on Earth is like that: trees, animals, plants. Except one.

There is one jellyfish living on Earth, and scientists are shocked. This jellyfish is eternal. It never dies. Of course, it goes through the same process of aging. And after many years, there are too many mistakes. But it doesn't die. It shrinks back to its original cells. It eliminates all the cells that have become corrupted. And when it's very small again, made only of pure cells, it grows once more. The Elohim made that to help us discover something. And many scientists are now studying this jellyfish, trying to use what they learn for human beings.

We all age. When we become too old, with too much damage, if we could grow back into a baby, that would be fun, right? And then grow again. This is a puzzle for scientists. They don't understand it. They don't fully understand quantum physics either.

In fact, there are more things that scientists don't understand than things they do understand. And it will always be like that. As the greatest scientists say, “The more I study, the more I realize I know nothing.” You can recognize real scientists by the way they speak. If they say, “We know everything,” they are not scientists. If they say, “I don't know, and nobody knows,” that is already higher.

And even higher, “We may never know.” That's the top of the top. The highest level is always mixed with humility. It's beautiful. And it's the same at our level. Why are people not friendly and not smiling? Why don't they give love? Because they think they know everything about everybody. They see somebody and say, “Oh, I know this person. Oh, he is bad.” But when you are full of love, every time you meet somebody, even somebody you have met thousands of times before, you are ready to be amazed.

Every human being is a mystery. Every human being. Everybody in this room. Everybody on Earth. Everybody in the universe. Everyone is constantly changing. You can feel it or not, but you are changing.

Buddha said, “Nothing is permanent.” That means nothing. Including us. The most beautiful example, I love going to cemeteries. I love it! It’s full of people who wanted to do something the next day... but finished underground. Or in a pot of ashes.

Every human being who died, which means every human being who has ever existed, wanted to do something the next day. Is there something you want to do? And you say, “I will do it tomorrow.” Oh? Are you sure you will be alive tomorrow? Are you sure? I am not sure. So, each second becomes precious. Because all these fantastic machines... nothing is permanent inside them.

My heart is not the heart I had when I was born. My brain is not the brain I had last year. All our cells are constantly changing. And so is our consciousness. And even more important, our supraconsciousness. When you meditate today, try to remember your meditation seven years ago. They are not the same. The first time you meditate, you don’t really meditate. Because you pay attention. You don’t feel everything. You look at a wall and say, “Wow, I meditate.” And when you say that, there is no more meditation.

With time, there is no more “wow”. There is no more wall. You meditate in front of a wall but you don’t see it. You meditate with your body, but you don’t feel your body. That is ultimate meditation. But all these machines are constantly changing. Feel the change. It’s magic.

“Oh, I have pain.” It’s fixing itself. A lot of police and ambulances are coming. It’s amazing. It’s happening. But when you trust only medicine, you give up your own ability to heal yourself. You go to the hospital and think, “The hospital will fix my health.” You take the pills they give you and think, “The pills will fix my health.” Never.

When I was in the hospital and they gave me pills, my meditation was, “I will heal, even with these terrible pills.” I take them, but they are not worthy of my attention. My body, my immune system, is infinitely more powerful than any human medicine. Our best doctor: The Elohim. They put everything inside us. Some people, you know, during the joke of Covid, “Oh, we need a vaccine.” Everybody. This is an insult to the Elohim. And that’s why people die. Punishment.

No vaccine. I trust the Elohim doctors. My body.

Think about the millions of people on Earth who lived through an infinite number of pandemics. There was no vaccine. There were no antibiotics. But we are alive. There was not even a hospital. Because there was an incredibly good doctor called the immune system. Patented. Patented by the Elohim. You know the little © after a patented product? You should have a big one here. The best doctors in the infinite universe: the Elohim.

And we can live 120 years; 122 for Jeanne Calment. Not vegetarian. Smoking. Putting sugar in every glass of water. One big spoon of sugar in every glass. When people asked, “Why do you put sugar?” She answered, “Otherwise, it has no taste.” One hundred and twenty-two years old. Until the age of 117, she smoked one pack of cigarettes every day and ate one kilo of chocolate every week. Not dark bitter chocolate. Regular chocolate with sugar. That’s Jeanne Calment. But laughing, always having fun. That’s the secret of the registered doctor. Smiling at this fantastic machine.

What is laughter? Nobody can explain it. You just look at the ocean, and laughter comes. You open your eyes in bed, and you laugh. You don’t think about the taxes you have to pay, how you will buy food, the problems with your partner, girlfriend or boyfriend.

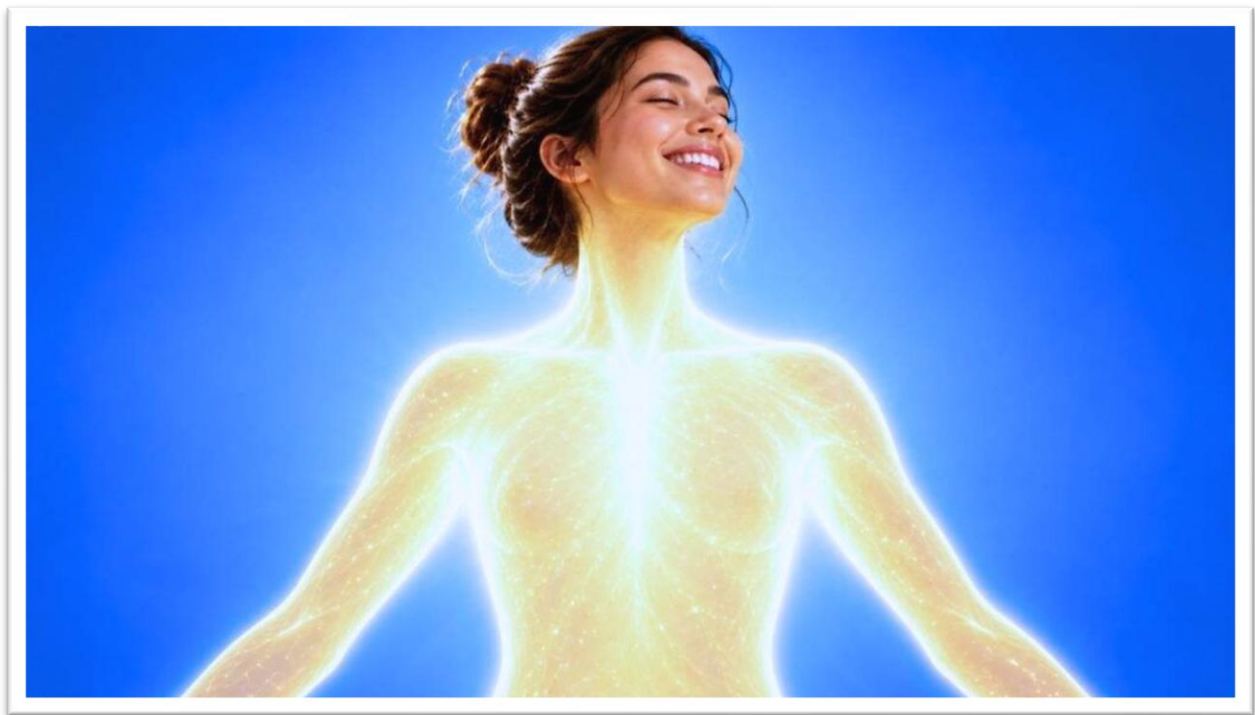

You wake up, and you laugh. Why? For no reason. It comes naturally from the whole body. When you laugh, just as when you smile, it is billions of cells laughing. You can simulate laughter. But when it comes naturally, it comes from them. Suddenly there is a contraction. Think about it. All your cells are laughing when you laugh. And when you feel it, you laugh even more. You cannot stop.

Why stop laughing? There is no reason.

Only death can make you stop laughing. But I guarantee you, when you wake up on the planet of the Elohim, you wake up and laugh. In fact, it is infinite laughter.

So why not starting now?

I see you

Maitreya Rael, Raelian Gathering, June 28, 80 aH (2026), Okinawa, Japan

xx It's time to say hello to the Elohim. "Hello!"

That's all the contact is. It's simply saying hello. It's not complicated. There is no need for complicated thinking.

Just, "Hello! I am here, at your service, spreading your love, receiving your love, being love." That's all.

Do you remember the Message? The power of one brain, of one being, is huge, but the power of many brains together is infinite. And that's exactly what the contact is about. It's like a shower of love coming from human beings all around the Earth.

And if you pay attention, in return there is a shower of love coming from the sky.

We are living in a fantastic time. We can even say that we have already entered the singularity. The number of discoveries made every day is incredible. Every day, if you follow the news, especially scientific news, on the Internet or elsewhere, it's amazing. Especially in countries that give priority to science.

There is one country in particular. While almost every country on Earth gives priority to Mammon, the god of money, to capitalism, money, power, and the military... one country gives priority to science. And you are lucky, it's in Asia.

China.

China is now producing an incredible number of scientific discoveries. Before, it was the United States. Today, the United States has become a dwarf by comparison. Last year, China produced ten times more scientific patents than the United States. Ten times more.

The United States invests in weapons. Their trains still look like trains from the Wild West. Almost like steam trains, "Choo-choo... choo-choo..." Railway stations in the United States look as if they belong to the last century. No... two centuries ago.

China has just tested a new train that travels as fast as an airplane, thanks to magnetic levitation. And we were so proud recently for trains traveling at 300 or 400 km/h. The new Chinese train travels at 700 km/h. The same speed as many airplanes. A train!

And it's the same in every field: medicine, astronomy, genetics, everything.

So, today we can say that China has become one of humanity's greatest hopes, while other countries continue clinging to military power. They are Third World countries. You look at the streets of Los Angeles, New York, Washington... full of homeless people.

China? No. Everybody has food. Everybody has a place to sleep. This is happening now.

And the level of research... We are approaching the singularity, which means that, thanks to science, we are discovering everything. This week, I was thrilled by a new discovery. Fantastic news. No media talked about it. Yet it completely supports our teaching. It's absolutely amazing.

A neuroscientist, a scientist who studies the brain, to his incredible surprise, met a man living a completely normal life: a family, a job, everything perfectly normal. Then they scanned his head. No brain. No brain; nothing. Not even a little. Nothing but fluid. And yet he lives a perfectly normal life.

What have I been teaching you? That the most important neurons are in the heart, not in the head. The head is totally useless. It's like the hard drive of your computer. It stores memories. The past. But this fortunate man, who has no brain, lives continuously in meditation. No emotional turmoil. No unnecessary reactions. Detachment. A real Buddha. And a happy man.

So, I hope one day it will be possible to simply remove the brain! We now have scientific evidence that we do not need a brain.

Wow!

For the first time, they have discovered a man living a completely normal life... without a brain.

Take a deep breath. Don't think. Feel. Feel that perhaps this [the head] is not what's essential. This [the heart] is what's important: Love. Love comes from the neurons of the heart. Supraconsciousness is in the heart, not in the brain. And we all possess it. But when we force ourselves to think, we no longer use the heart. When we spread love, the love of the Elohim, we use the heart.

So, when you want to communicate your love to the Elohim, during the Sunday contact, don't think about the Elohim; feel the Elohim. Feel them. They feel you. They don't think about you. The Elohim are like little children, constantly playing. They are not serious at all. When I was with them, I felt as though I were in a kindergarten. Always joking. Jumping. Playing. Dancing. Not solemn gods. And they created us in their image. So, we are the same.

Before, when I said this, nobody listened. But now we have found this man with no brain. He is not handicapped. He is not mentally impaired. He drives his car. He goes to work. He takes care of his family... without a brain.

So, stop using this [the head] and start using this [the heart]. And that's exactly what you practice every day. The Happiness Academy is coming soon. What is the Happiness Academy? It's training the heart. Through meditation. Through being. Through meeting new people. Who are you? "Oh, I'm a teacher." "I'm an engineer." The real question is not, "Who are you?" The real question is, "Are you?"

This week, we watched a fantastic movie. I recommend it to all of you. It's titled Detachment. It's not new. Maybe ten years old. Fifteen? It perfectly describes the problem of humanity where nobody is. People live their lives; eight billion people on Earth. Eight billion! They live. But what is living? Wake up, go to work, return home, sleep. Sleepwalkers. That's a beautiful word: They live but they do not exist. The most beautiful part of the movie shows people living side by side in what I describe in Naha as "chicken houses" or rabbit hutches. You see highways filled with cars. Everybody is going somewhere. But in reality, they are going nowhere. They are like robots. They live, but nobody is.

That's why, when I meet people, I don't ask, "How are you?" I ask, "Are you?" Is someone there? Is someone watching you?

In this movie, there is a teacher. His students never look at him. They don't listen. For them, he doesn't exist. Then he returns to his apartment, his wife is watching television, or looking at her phone. She never even looks at him. He is completely alone. Everybody on Earth, they live, but they do not exist. To exist, you need someone smiling at you, eyes looking into your eyes, someone breathing with you, a hand touching your hand.

I am here. You are here. We are. That's what human beings need.

And this man is so desperate that every day, when school finishes, he goes in front of the school; there is a fence – it's the most beautiful part of the movie, for me – you know, a wire fence, like the ones around a chicken coop. He holds on to it with one finger and stays there for a long time. Then, one day, an awakened teacher comes. He stands in front of him. He says nothing. He simply looks into his eyes. The man is so surprised that he asks, "Do you see me? Do you see me?" – "Yes, I see you." And that changed his life. Finally, somebody saw him. "Do you see me?" – "I see you."

It's so basic. No need for a brain. No need for thinking. I see you; you see me. We become one. Suddenly, I begin to exist because I see myself reflected in your eyes. I recommend you this movie. You can find it on the Internet. Again, it's titled Detachment, which is a part of the teaching of Buddha: not being attached. Detachment.

You look at life and you feel.
Are you alive?
Are you alive?
Do you exist?
Can you see me?
I can see you.

And that is why we come to the Sunday morning gatherings: to see each other, to feel each other, to feel that we exist. And the Elohim are looking at you. They feel you.

They are sending you a message saying, "We see you. Do you see us?" Do you see the Elohim? Simply look up and say, "Wow!" Do you remember the prayer? "Elohim, I know you are somewhere. I cannot see you, but I feel you." Do you remember it from the Messages? It's so important to say this prayer every day to stay connected.

I like English. There is an expression that beautifully describes something that requires no thinking because it simply is. They say, "It's a no-brainer." English is fantastic. "It's a no-brainer." It means you don't need to think about it. It's clear.

So, stop using the brain, and use the heart.

Thank you.

Happiness Academy in Italy

Love, happiness, meditation, laughter, and the joy of being together

From June 16th to 20th, 80 aH, the peaceful Tuscan town of Chianciano Terme hosted a deeply inspiring edition of the Happiness Academy in Italy, welcoming fifty-five participants, including twelve people attending for the very first time. For five days, the Happiness Academy became a vibrant space of awareness, friendship, personal growth, meditation, and authentic human connection.

This year's theme, "The art of living and living with art", guided participants on an immersive journey dedicated to happiness, self-discovery, and conscious living. Through meditations, teachings, music, dance, creative workshops, group activities, and heartfelt moments of sharing, everyone was invited to reconnect with the present moment and rediscover the beauty of simply being.

The Academy also created an atmosphere filled with warmth, friendship, kindness, and openness. New friendships quickly blossomed, while a strong spirit of unity naturally emerged within the group.

The beautiful program conceived by Roberta explored, day after day, the four essential questions that Maitreya invites us to ask ourselves: Where am I? Who am I? Why am I here? Who is here with me? These profound questions encouraged self-awareness, love, connection with others, and living in harmony with infinity.

Every day, we savored the wonderful teachings Maitreya gave at the recent October International Convention in Okinawa, which lifted us to new heights and brought us even closer to our beloved Creators.

The evening programs added a particularly magical dimension to the event, offering deeply emotional moments through meditative dance, creative and artistic performances, sensory and musical experiences, and collective celebrations that touched many hearts, and brought tears to many eyes.

The surrounding natural environment and the welcoming hotel contributed greatly to the Academy's success. Participants especially appreciated the kindness and helpfulness of the hotel staff, the excellent Tuscan cuisine, and the warm hospitality that transformed every shared meal into another opportunity for connection and joyful exchange. The only small challenge came when stepping on the scale after returning home! :-)

At the end of the event, participants also had the joy of welcoming a new trainee Guide, Danaela. Bravo Danaela!

During the final feedback session, many described leaving with renewed energy, inner peace, and a deeper sense of self-love and gratitude. Mission accomplished.

More than simply an event, the Happiness Academy in Italy became a true human adventure, a collective experience of happiness, sharing, love, and conscious living, that will remain in the hearts of all the participants, as well as the entire team whose dedication helped make this beautiful event possible.

Switzerland: A Clitoraid booth at the Nyon market

On market day in Nyon, the Clitoraid booth was set up amid a festive atmosphere and under a beautiful blue sky. The street was filled with umbrellas, colorful hats, and happy children. Our booth was set up by Thierry and Philippe. There were also delicious pastries baked by Doramour, the head of Clitoraid in Switzerland.

François came from Fribourg, and Bernard joined us; together, we worked to raise money to help women who have undergone female genital mutilation (FGM) receive surgery, regain their dignity, and rediscover pleasure.

For me, it's an exhilarating moment to approach passers-by and ask them to support our cause to help these women who have undergone FGM; these encounters are full of enthusiasm and emotion, as we experience these unique connections that are hard to describe. There, it's a language of heart-to-heart connection, moments of silence, of our eyes communicating.

Thank you to the whole team for this wonderful day.

Kisses and happiness.

DES INTERVENANTS EXCEPTIONNELS • UNE COMMUNAUTÉ BIENVEILLANTE
UNE EXPÉRIENCE UNIQUE

For over a year now, a team, driven by the desire and enthusiasm to introduce the Happiness Academies to the whole world, has been working to develop communication tools to highlight this unique and exceptional event of meditation, sharing, personal growth, and the transmission of the teachings of the Elohim and Maitreya.

The tens of thousands of participants worldwide, for more than fifty years, know just how much this week of discovery and the freedom to be oneself is a gift of a lifetime worth giving to yourself!

The Happiness Academies are open to everyone. We want every human being to have access to them, regardless of their religion, social status, culture... Over the months, this adventure has taken shape thanks to the enthusiasm, creativity, and dedication of the team.

A special congratulations and thank you to Bouda and Daniel M, who have devoted more than a year to envisioning, building, and growing this project.

With patience and perseverance, they laid the groundwork for this campaign: creating social media pages, developing the website, designing the visual identity, and organizing the content; an immense amount of work done behind the scenes, driven by the desire to make the Happiness Academies accessible to as many people as possible.

Thanks to them, we have the tools we need to continue this shared endeavor.

Our thanks to Karine, who coordinates the welcome for newcomers in Europe and organizes a Zoom session every Thursday evening at 7 p.m. Paris time to share information and discuss the Happiness Academies.

Our thanks to Nathalie, who, with her professional talent for creating communication materials and her invaluable help in improving them, brings a harmonious identity to this campaign and gently conveys what we wish to share.

And our thanks to our social media influencers who organized a week of live streams on TikTok in late June, allowing thousands of people to discover the Happiness Academies: Jaël, Raphaëlle, Steve, Eckra, as well Gyom, Princess Loona, Jean-Marie, Diel, Philippe L., Aviva, Genèse, Priscille and all the teams working on the Raelfrancophone channel.

As Maitreya teaches, the future of humanity lies in cooperation (see, in French: fr.raeliannews.org/nul-besoin-de-gouvernement-lavenir-de-lhumanite-est-la-cooperation.html).

One of the most wonderful aspects of this campaign is the spirit of cooperation that has naturally developed between the teams in Europe and Kama. Ideas are flowing; talents are emerging and expressing themselves with creativity and synergy, in a diverse array of colors that enrich one another. Everyone contributes their own sensibility, perspective, and enthusiasm.

This wonderful collaboration reflects what we're experiencing: together, we go further :)

France, Paris: UAP Symposium at the National Assembly

Before: 100 meters from the French National Assembly

On June 29, 2026, a symposium on unidentified anomalous phenomena (UAP) was held at the National Assembly.

For us Raelians, this event had special significance. For the first time, a topic that had long been marginalized was officially brought before a French parliamentary body. For several hours, the discussion centered on UFOs, sightings, investigations, GEIPAN, CNES, methods of analysis, and military, aeronautical, sociological, and media aspects.

But one absence was striking: there was much talk of the craft, but very little of those who might be inside them. Where do they come from? What do they want? Why are they making themselves known? How should humanity prepare to welcome them? These questions, though essential to us, were almost entirely absent.

Outside, several Raelians were present in a spirit of peace and fraternity. Flyers were distributed to participants, created specifically for this event, “Are we ready?” to which we added, “Why are we rejected?” Many accepted them, and some were already reading them while waiting in line before entering.

They were rejected because Maryline and Jean Pierre had not been accepted to the conference after registering and clearly stating their affiliation with the Raelian Movement, whereas Philippe and Jaôm, who registered after them without mentioning this affiliation, had been accepted.

That same day, another problem arose while we were handing out flyers in front of the National Assembly. As we were making our way up the line to hand out the flyers, someone came out of the building to tell us that they did not want their conference to be associated with us as the Raelian Movement.

These events remind us that the Raelian message continues to be unsettling; not because it is violent or closed-minded, but because it directly raises the question that many still avoid: are we ready to officially welcome the Elohim?

This symposium was therefore an important milestone. It shows that the topic of UAP is gaining ground within institutions. But it also shows that humanity is still hesitant to take the next step: recognizing that behind certain phenomena may lie the question of an intelligence, an origin, an intention, and a contact.

For us, this day was therefore both encouraging and revealing. Encouraging, because the topic is finally entering the public debate. Revealing, because the word “extraterrestrial” was almost entirely absent for four hours – as if one could study the signs without daring to speak of those who send them – and it took a speaker mentioning the “Raelian cult” and their leaflets for the word “extraterrestrial” to finally appear, ten minutes before the end.

Our role, therefore, remains essential.

- Continue to share our testimonies. Continue to inform. Continue to prepare for the Embassy.
- Continue to act with love, calm, intelligence, and perseverance.

On that day, the National Assembly opened a door. It's up to us to remind people, gently yet firmly, of what lies behind that door: the possibility of official contact with the Elohim, and the need for humanity to prepare for it with maturity, unity, and peace. The world is changing; often more slowly than we would like, but it is changing. Our role is not to force this change. Our role is to be present when it happens.

At the end of the conference, we held a small demonstration with our "Let's Be Ready" signs 😊

On June 29, 2026, we were there with our smiles, our flyers, our stories, our love for humanity, and above all, with the certainty that the best is yet to come.

Thank you to all the participants: Philippe L, inside the conference, and Jean Pierre S, Maryline, Dominique B, Thierry, Christian, and Vita, outside. And to Jaôm, who was unable to attend.

For your information:

- The booklet "An Embassy for Extraterrestrials," in French, was given to Pierre Henriët (one of the two members of parliament who organized the conference).
- The English-language booklet was given to a British expert (we do not have the name).
- The press release and the two flyers were handed to Gilles Durand, secretary general of the SCEAU Archives Ovni association (preservation of UFO archives), who took a photo of Thierry and Maryline.

My first Raelian conference

My journey with the Raelian Movement began as a new Raelian living in South Africa, although my roots are in India. As a researcher of spiritual studies, comparative philosophies, and the exploration of extraterrestrial life from both philosophical and scientific perspectives, I have always been driven by a desire to understand humanity and our place in the universe. Studying the Raelian philosophy gave me a fresh perspective and helped me explain its concepts in a simple, practical, and easy-to-understand way. This inspired me to create educational videos and conduct philosophical discussions in South Africa.

On 5 July 2026, I had the privilege of organizing my first open online conference with the Indian Raelian team and well-wishers. Although the attendance was modest, the discussions were meaningful, productive, and inspiring. It was an honour to interact with senior Raelians and members from across India and exchange ideas in a spirit of openness and mutual respect. My personal view is that every human being has the potential to discover their inner wisdom, values, and true happiness by examining and, where appropriate, letting go of unnecessary attachments, rigid dogmas, and limiting beliefs. My purpose is to continue sharing educational discussions on Raelian philosophy, focusing on the values of happiness, love, the philosophical concept of infinity, and the symbolism of the Raelian emblem. I hope these conversations encourage people to think deeply, ask meaningful questions, and explore ideas with curiosity, respect, and an open mind while appreciating the diversity of human beliefs and cultures.

John Raelian - South Africa

Thank you so much, John, for accepting the invitation to give your first presentation, and for so generously sharing your wisdom on philosophy and spirituality with us. Your genuine desire to spread Raelian values among the people of India, combined with your gift for making these ideas accessible through educational and open discussions, is truly inspiring. What stands out most is the harmony you bring to every exchange, your warmth, openness, and respect for others. You carry a peaceful energy and calming presence that many will feel drawn to. We have no doubt you will be a wonderful guiding presence for the Raelian family in India. We look forward to many more of your talks on happiness, love, infinity, and beyond. Congratulations on this beautiful milestone!
